

54 Lamb's Conduit Street, WC1

Bloomsbury is home to major educational, cultural and health care institutions such as UCL, The British Museum and Great Ormond Street Hospital and benefits from excellent transport links, with 8 mainline and London Underground stations in and immediately surrounding the area. Lamb's Conduit Street is situated at the heart of Bloomsbury and has developed a reputation as one of central London's most desirable quality, independent retail destinations. Fashion & beauty emporiums such as Oliver Spencer, Universal Works, Folk, Connock & Lockie, Grenson and Aesop sit alongside a variety of independent retail outlets, cafes, restaurants, wine bars and public houses such as Noble Rot and Ciao Bella. The subject unit occupies a prominent position in the center of Lamb's Conduit Street and is a two sided street frontage on both Lamb's Conduit Street and Rugby Street.